Fintech – Smackdown!
The debate around Fintech has been raging on for half a decade, if not more. Does it really have the power to reshape the financial services industry? How dramatically will it change business models and growth expectations in our markets? If you are an established incumbent player, should you be worried? If you are a founder with stars in your eyes, where are the road blocks?

We have all heard the buzz words. Now it is time to put some of them to the test. CFA Society Pakistan brings you a group of Fintech Evangelists and an equally strong group of industry cynics from the banking and technology world for an exciting, no holds barred, Fintech smack down.

Witness the panelists debate the future of financial services in our region and the opportunity Fintech represents for all of us. Presented using two panels, the event focuses on answering important questions that will reshape banking, insurance, payments and financial services landscape in coming years.
